

NEW RESOURCE FOR EDUCATORS: LANGUAGE LIZARD BLOG

Http://blog.LanguageLizard.com/

Language Lizard LLC has introduced a new blog that will be a key resource for teachers, librarians and families who support children with diverse language needs and wish to bring more multicultural education to the classroom.

For years Language Lizard has been offering award-winning bilingual books in over 40 languages. During this time, the company has been meeting the needs of diverse communities and making the classroom more welcoming for families of all backgrounds.

Some of the posts on this blog will review broad topics, such as how to involve bilingual families in the classroom or a review of new research on bilingualism. Other topics will be quite specific. For example, posts will provide sections of lesson plans that teach about specific countries or holidays; others will suggest materials to use when teaching a multicultural classroom about counting/numbers. Many of the posts will answer some of the frequently asked questions Language Lizard has received over the years from teachers and parents.

Look through the posts to find information on...

- Multicultural Lesson Plans
 - Bilingualism
 - Supporting Dual Language Learners (DLLs) / English Language Learners (ELLs)
 - Bilingual Book Reviews
 - Effective Uses of Dual-Language Books
 - Celebrations/ Holidays
- and more!

If you have any comments about this blog, or suggestions as to how Language Lizard can continue to support you, please visit the "Contact Us" Page at www.LanguageLizard.com to provide feedback.